FOREWORD

In compiling this fifteenth volume of the NOCATULA the staff has endeavored to depict the activities of the college, its students and organizations.

Unfortunately all noteworthy incidents and all notable individuals do not find mention. So this book is to renew the golden memories of your associates at Wesleyan, your Alma Mater, during the year of '34.

To express our esteem for the man who has so faithfully served and advised the staff, who has with untiring efforts striven to make this institution a better one, who has been an inspiration to every student, and who has created an atmosphere of friendliness on the campus, the students of Tennessee Wesleyan College respectfully dedicate this, the fifteenth volume of the Nocatula to

PROFESSOR A. W. BREWINGTON

RUTH STEPHENSON

*"She is not dead,
She is just away."*

Although Ruth Stephenson has slipped away in the great beyond, her noble influence lingers with us still. Ruth's life with us was marked not by its length but by its intensity.

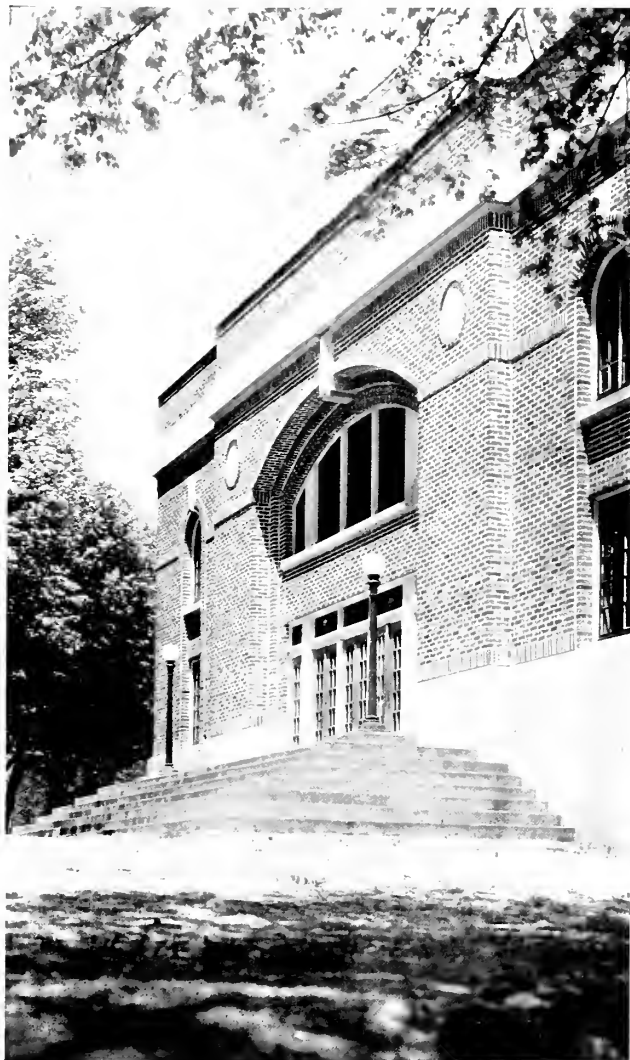

While she attended Wesleyan her services were great and her accomplishments many. The most important activities on the campus secured her interest. She is especially remembered for her excellence as a student and for her musical ability.

While she is away, we shall remember her life, and enjoy her uplifting influence.

TO THE SENIORS

In the shaded quiet of a corner of our campus two legendary trees, the hackberry and the oak, join their branches in mutual devotion. In winter winds they sigh together, in golden fall their leaves mingle in joyful descent, in spring life returns to them with green buds. Connestoga, the oak, symbol of strength and endurance, is joined eternally with Nocatula, the hackberry, symbol of love and devotion.

This old story of the two Indian lovers who lived and died together is an excellent emblem of treasured friendships and experiences for the class of 1934 to meditate upon in after college days. For the life that they face, may Connestoga bestow upon them confidence and faith. For their loyalty to Wesleyan, long may Nocatula bless them with love and fidelity.

To aid the religious organizations in rendering useful Christian service upon the campus and in the church, is the purpose of this Council. It is also helpful in developing and shaping campus opinion on religious matters.

This year the Council has cooperated with the church in carrying on a successful two-weeks evangelistic campaign; it has sent out a Gospel Team which has had charge of services at several churches and has on one Sunday of each month had afternoon services at the County Farm.

The final Sunday night of the school year is in charge of the Council. At this time there is a guest speaker and new officers are installed during a candle-light service.

To Coach McCray, Captain Eblen, and a small squad of fighting Bulldogs goes the honor for this past season's success. They went up against some of the best teams in the nation and fought against odds that would have defeated most teams. The Bulldogs' schedule included two of the eleven undefeated teams in the nation, as well as Lenoir Rhyne and Maryville, two of the leading teams in the Appalachian Mountains.

Frank Ditmore, Wesleyan's ace end, received honorable mention for All-American end, and this alone should show the splendid work that Coach McCray is doing for Wesleyan.

Keith, Co-Captain elect, was one of Coach McCray's best linemen during the past season. He was a fast charger as well as being a hard tackler and a good blocker. McIntyre was one of McCray's most dependable guards. Although handicapped by injuries, Masters shone in every game of the season. Swiney lived up to his high school record of an All-Southern end during the past season. A hard tackler, a good blocker, and sensational pass receiver, always working hard; that's Swiney. McCray is counting heavily on these four linemen during the coming season.

Gregory was the inspiration of the team. He is a good passer, punter, and is unexcelled as a runner. It was his long touchdown runs that often brought the Bulldogs out of a tight place. Although new in the game, Laforce worked like an old hand. He distinguished himself by his beautiful touchdown run in the Hiwassee game. Mitchell was always encouraging his teammates. He was a hard fighter and a player who handled the pivot position nicely, often he was called on to drop back and punt the Bulldogs out of dangerous territory. Strickland was a fast charger, good blocker, and hard tackler. He was never discouraged, but was always fighting hard.
